Commentary

Past Performance

Despite a stagnant economy, the key holdings within the fund are performing strongly.

Future Performance

There is significant opportunity for the fund to invest in additional under researched and mis-priced companies, which have exciting Sub-Saharan growth strategies.

Not only is there rapid regional population and urbanization growth, Africa is benefitting from a digital revolution:

A Digital Revolution

From the way existing products are distributed— like pre-paid electricity vouchers (Blue Label Telecoms and Consolidated Infrastructure Group).

To how horse racing enthusiasts view a horse race, and how fans bet on a soccer match (Phumelela).

To the use of GSM vehicle tracking, to price and manage risk, in minibus taxi financing (Transaction Capital).

To the scale benefits in education (Advtech), and the working capital management benefits that new ERP systems bring to distribution companies (Dawn, Hudaco, Rolfes and Pinnacle).

Add to this an additional billion people in 35 years, and the unique investment opportunity in Africa becomes apparent.
